“ I have such fun childhood memories of times spent with Wanda. My family (the Turners), lived down the street from her brother, Clyde, on Montrose Avenue, in Nashville. When Wanda came to Clyde's, she would come over to play. We loved it when she came. She was so full of life and so much fun. We four sisters had long hair and she would brush our hair and try out different styles. We would have "church services" pretend weddings, and whoever got to be the bride would wear a sheer white curtain for the veil! Wanda was so animated and full of joy and laughter. The room lit up when she came in the door. I'm praying for all her dear family in this time of loss. We love this wonderful family. God bless and comfort you.

“ Wanda and I was the music at our Nazarene church. I picked lead guitar at church and Wanda played piano. Wanda was a find pianist. Started picking at church with Wanda when I was around 14. She will be greatly missed. Mr Perry my heart goes out to you and family. Wife and I remember when you guys came to my 50th birthday party in Greenbrier, Tn. Please take care of yourself. God Bless you! Sincerely Paul and Rose Warpool.

“ I met Wanda at a church revival when I was about 12 years old. She could sing and get down on that piano like no one I had ever seen in our little church. It wasn't until I was married and my sister took me to Wanda's house (mid 70's) and she cut my hair for the first time, ever. It was so long and when she finished it was beautiful! It was during that visit I realized what a great sense of humor she had. She kept us laughing the entire time. She also knew I couldn't afford a hair cut at the time so she didn't charge me anything. I haven't seen Wanda in years, but I have never forgotten how good she was to me. I can still see her sitting at the piano and singing her heart out!!! I know she is singing with the other angels in heaven. My deepest condolences to her family and friends. I know how broken your heart feels right now. I hope you find comfort in all the memories you have with Wanda throughout the years.
