“ Guy was one of the smartest persons in our high school and a honor graduate of UT. He was a serious reader and saw both the beauty and insanity of humankind. I greatly admired his intellectual curiosity and loved our conversations. He was a dear friend and sought to make the world a kinder place. My thoughts are with you Guy... Tom Sloan

“ Guy was my next door neighbor. I've known him for many years, since I was a baby barely walking. He was always a super nice man to my family and me. He loved to hear me play my flute. He loved nature and he loved to read. When I would go outside on my deck, I would always see his nose nudged in a book. He loved my dog Roscoe. When he got off work , if Roscoe was outside, he would come and pet him. He also loved his cats. He will be missed dearly, but never forgotten. Rest In Peace my Neighbor and Friend

“ I will have to post many accolades, later. I am heart-broken, and cannot really respond yet. I am just so shocked. He was very young, in today's terms. Please give me some time. He was a member of Synergy, sort of a communal group we founded in 1976 or so, and a member of our Household. He certainly was George Davis' best friend. I sent heartfelt condolences to his brother, Larry. Larry, we may have met once. I am not positive about that....when Guy was living at home at the Paragon Mills Apartments. I thought Dorcas was such an intelligent person. I loved Guy very, very much. So sad.....Janice L. Marshall, the lady living in the Netherlands

“ The light of one of the kindest and most gentle souls to have graced the world of those he befriended has been extinguished. It is up to each of us to rekindle it by carrying forward the light he shone into our lives ...make up for the darkness his passing has left. We should all remember him as all that a truly "Good Person" could ever aspire to be....and always aspire to the height he reached! Words are inadequate to convey all that I will miss about him. Go in peace my friend and thank you!

“ Guy was a warm and kind spirit. Very smart, laid back, and often very witty in a dry sort of way. I miss you my friend.

“ Of all of the people I'd worked with in the state, Guy was right at the top. He lived life in his own way, pleasant, modest, and one of the funniest people I've ever met. His dry wit and brilliance would come through. He had a master's degree in math, but was more of a lifestyle entrepreneur. He had his priorities right. I remember exchanging stories about our cats, or just funny stories. After I left the state, if I ran into Guy downtown, he was always happy to catch up. He was gracious to everyone. I know he will be missed by many, including me.

“ Guy was such a kind and gentle soul who saw the good in everything and everybody. He was a laid back guy who let the world shout but he did not have to join in on all the shouting. He would listen then decide what he needed to accomplish. He will be missed for the great person he truthly was to everyone who was fortunant to be his friend. Denise Burton Nashville TN
