“ Literally thinking of you on a daily basis 😭❤️ I remember the night before I met you at the meeting, you begged me to go to church with you, and the promise you made me make💔 this wasn't the way it was supposed to happen! I was talking about you to someone tonight and realized just how supportive you've been the past 15 months of my life and I regret taking one second of that for granted, thinking there was always gonna be more time!!! Me and Lil Man miss your 4am video calls💙 I hate that you are gone, but someone somewhere out there needed you as their guardian angel more than we needed you on earth💙💔😭 I'm just happy that you are no longer hurting!

“ I have a tattoo he did on my shoulder. Now I told him no a hundred times but he was so convincing he could sell his dirty drawers lol. He finally talked me into it. This tattoo was supposed to be a red heart and angel wings with a halo.... when he was finished I looked in the mirror and what I got was a black heart with a red line in it. I said "Jonathan what happened dude" he replied "the red wouldn't take" i said "so you just kept going...." he replied "well yea" with a big smile and that beautiful laugh of his. It was so funny and now i have a tattoo he drew and a great memory forever. It's my only tattoo. He always did the funniest stuff i have so many funny stories of him to look back on and to share, for that I'm thankful.
