“ *Poe Dunk, thank you for all those memories in the 70's. Robert and I so enjoyed the times together with you and Beth. You had us laughing hysterically most of the time. One of my favorite memories was catching the back seat of you car on fire and you jerking out the seat and beating it one cold winter night. You put it back in the car and we went about our night. I know you had experinced many difficult years especially losing Heather. You will now be joined with her and others that have gone before you. You will be so missed by your family and friends left behind.

I can't believe I'm just seeing this, so many good times! I remember the car fire very well, you left out the best part, you and Robert were sitting on the burning seat. Remember the time he caught his face on fire blowing butane on a lighter? How about when our boat sank out in the lake. RIP, Poe. You were a lifelong friend, crazy ex, father of my 2 girls, and the funniest person I've ever known. I will always miss you, sometimes laughing, sometimes crying. Beth
