“ Oh I love you Daddy. I'm going to miss you so much. I'm grateful for every sacrifice you made for me. Every ball game you drove me too when I was too young to drive, and driving across the south when I was older. everything you taught me, everything you said I hold special. I knew I could count on you for anything in the entire world, no matter what I asked. I'm sad for Presley and Cooper not being able to see you and learn from you. Teaching Cooper to get muddy and Presley to be nice but tough! You even loved my big dogs like your own, even when they took over your house. I'm looking through pictures and know how important you are to me and so many people. I can't believe in aren't going to show up in just a little while. I'm so glad you are my Dad and I'm proud to say you are.. I love you Dad

“ I was a Regional Manager with Motion when I first met Tim. He was the Operations Manager in the Nashville branch. You’re not supposed to have favorites when you oversee multiple locations, but I couldn’t help myself. There was an energy and a purpose in that location that stood out. I attributed this to the leadership in that branch, and Tim was a major factor. He was a fine person, and I’m glad I knew him.

“ I grew up with Tim. We went to school together, went to the same church, played ball and worked together. Tim's dad hired me to work at his grocery store. Tim's mom would give my mom Tim's hand me down clothes. Whenever you were around Tim you knew you would have a good time and most of the time you knew you were going to get in trouble. After football practice in August a thunderstorm blew through right before Tim gave me a ride home on his motorcycle. The sun had came back out and the roads were slick. as usual Tim was going too fast as we approached a stop sign. The bike slid sideways and tipped over. We should have died in a fireball of a crash. The crash bar caught on the pavement and somehow popped the bike right side up again and we came to a stop at the stop sign as if Tim had planned the whole ordeal. Five minutes later Tim dropped me off at my house, said I'll see you tomorrow and I thanked him for the ride home. We never discussed the wreck. It was as if nothing unusual happened. Mrs. Willingham, Eric and Tim's family will be in my prayers. RIP my friend.

“ Probably one of the best brother in laws you could ask for. He truly would give you the shirt off of his back in a moments notice. We have shared so much together from the days when he was a customer of mine to the cookouts and holidays with the family. I'm going to miss you buddy but I know you are no longer in pain and you are healthy and whole once again. Love ya, Terry
