“ While looking online at the Buffalo obituaries for an old classmate, I entered my former fiance's last name, to see if he still had his parents. Imagine my shock when I saw that Trey suddenly died in 2018.

I will never understand why God allows:

 parents to lose their child*

 children to grow up without their father*

“ My sincere condolences to the Knight family. Coping with the loss of a love one is not easy, but take comfort in knowing that God cares about the suffering we face. (1Peter 5:7) In the bible at Job 14:14,15 is. says that God has a "yearning," to see those who have died resurrected to life here on earth.

“ So sorry to hear about this. Trey was the director that worked with our family when my husband passed in 2010. He was kind, patient, and compassionate and made the very best of a truly terrible time for my family. For that we will forever keep Trey in our hearts. I know that he will be missed terribly by his family and friends as he will be by us. Rest in Peace Trey.

“ Trey, was a kind soul, he was a New York guy that dugged his spurs in the south in Tennessee. Were he fit perfectly. He welcomed everyone, he was kind quite spoken soul and very respectful of everyone and full of humor you could call him a "good ol boy" from the south a perfect fit. He will truly truly be missed and remembered. Saddened by passing of Trey my prayers to his family's God Bless

“ I didn't work very closely with Trey but when our paths crossed he always had a smile, and I enjoyed talking to him and sharing a laugh or two. I'm so sorry to hear that at such a young age he has passed. He will certainly be missed by his family and his work family and many friends. In all sincerity..... most heartfelt sympathies to all. "Rest Well."

It has taken me three years to express my sadness on the loss of the best son in-law ever. This man came into our lives almost seven years ago when I lost my mom. He was so kind and helpful during our hard time. Then he started dating my daughter. It was almost two months after our beautiful grandson was born that Trey passed away. We were all devastated. We have spent the last three years picking up the pieces of our loss and trying to pull our daughter out of her deep sadness. We are now starting to move forward with our sweet beautiful daughter and grandson who by the way is so much like his dad. Trey will forever be with us for he lives on in his son Waylon. Love you bunches son of ours.
